The diagram shows a vertical document layout. At the top is a header bar with a large white rectangle on the left and a smaller white square on the right. Below the header is a large black rectangle representing the main body of the document. Inside this black rectangle, there are several white horizontal bars of varying lengths, representing text lines. At the bottom of the black rectangle, there are two colored horizontal bars: a blue one above a red one, representing a footer or a specific section.

The diagram illustrates the layout of a health center. At the top, there is a long horizontal bar representing a reception area, divided into three sections by two vertical lines. Below this bar, there are five service areas arranged in two rows. The first row contains three areas: 'IBU HAMIL' (Pregnant Women), 'ANAK' (Children), and 'IMUNISASI' (Immunization). The second row contains two areas: 'Penjadwalan' (Scheduling) and 'KB' (Family Planning). Each service area is represented by a rectangle with a small square icon on the left side, indicating a counter or service point.

The image is a grayscale wireframe of a mobile application interface. At the top, there is a header bar with a title "PENJADWALAN" (Scheduling) in the center. To the left of the title is a circular profile picture placeholder. Below the profile picture is a calendar icon. The main content area is a list of six items, each represented by a rounded rectangle with a header and a body. The bottom of the screen features a navigation bar with two buttons: "kembali" (back) on the left and "Update" on the right.
